

"Dwell With Me"

By: Pastor Jack Hibbs

"Lord, you have been our dwelling place in all generations." Psalm 90:1 (NKJV)

What a remarkable statement that the psalmist, Moses, makes – one ripe with meaning. A reading of the whole psalm points to those overwhelming times in life when most people make a beeline for home. Man is naturally inclined toward erecting places of security and comfort, but even the strongest structures crumble and fall. What then? Here in this verse, Moses sets our vision higher than brick and mortar, concrete, or wood.

Moses could look back through the generations of Old Testament saints, all the way to Adam, to see all that God had been for His people. Yet, it took him leaving the comforts of Pharaoh's house for an uncertain forty-year journey through the wilderness to understand the depth, breadth, and strength of God's presence.

Those who dwell in Christ maintain a constant residence, they simply do not run to Him now and then. His Word becomes as necessary as daily food, filling the mind and heart with His Spirit.

When our innermost man rests his hopes in God alone, we discover a continual source of encouragement, direction, hope, and unconditional love – above and beyond this world.

Uncertainty is a part of this life, but this assurance remains fixed: the Lord has been and forever will be the dwelling place of His people in all generations.
